

THE EARTH LIGHT TRANSMISSIONS

Consciousness and Light

Jon Whistler

How often have you heard someone tell you that they move their consciousness into a higher dimension? Also, they claim the experience led them to contact an enlightened Being of that Dimension.

When I hear this I automatically ask myself, “How do they know what dimension they locked onto?”

Possibly, the Higher Dimensional Being tells them that they are on such and such a Dimension.

Because they have received information from a higher consciousness, the individual who has the experience assumes that he or she is more important than their listeners, and, because of the contact, the listeners should recognise that individual’s spiritual superiority.

On the Third-dimension you experience various levels of density, not only in the external environment, but also in your body. You differentiate between solids, liquids, and gases, and vaguely understand the energy fields and patterns of the atom. To a lesser extent you know very little about the etheric fields that hold together your body’s form.

Because you cannot see the etheric fields of energy, you limit your understanding to those “sensitives” who appear to be able, through a second sense.

There are increasing reports of “near-death experiences” where individuals who have died cross over into the lower levels of the Fourth-dimension and are often “brought back to life”, returning with information about a heaven, which is not different from the life they experience on this Dimension.

Others believe they have guides and angels, who talk to them and protect them from danger. Many of these guides are disincarnate beings that had Ego feelings of grandeur when they were living in their Earth-body.

These disincarnate beings attempt to create an aura of importance by pretending to be the souls of people who once lived in ancient civilizations. They feel the ancientness strengthens their claim to wisdom.

All their knowledge can be found in one or two books; however, it appears to the one who contacted the disincarnate spirit, as important knowledge, because it came from “the other side”.

Eventually, these disincarnate beings are unable to hold together their etheric form and they pass beyond the veil of memory into the lower level of the Fourth-dimension, where the Astral Lords rule. They experience a short duration of the heaven they hoped for before falling asleep.

Many people expect that after the death of their body, and they pass into a higher dimension, they will transcend the suffering and meaningless life they had on Earth.

However, after death they move across the void into a state of consciousness they desired on Earth. This is not an active experience. For some time they live the fantasy free from pain, suffering and want, which supposedly is the reward for their suffering on Earth.

The death of your body is no different from sleep in the daily life cycle. During sleep you actively live through the experiences of the waking time, and rehash old feelings and emotions associated with your daily experiences. Your dream experiences have no active contact with other Egos, and, as such, they are passive and restrict any personal expansion of consciousness and Light. You can only expand your consciousness and Light by your interactions with others, rather than by anything you dream about. The after-death experience contains the same limitations.

You can only increase your level of Light and consciousness as you express that consciousness through your Earth-body. The more you increase the consciousness of Light in your body, the more you transcend the limitations of the Astral dimension following the death of your body.

Your expanded consciousness gained through active experience on the Third-dimension ensures that you are not lulled into a dream-state after the death of your Earth-body.

After the death of the Earth-body, the Ego passes through the Etheric or energy frequency which burns off all form you had on the Third -dimension. Anything that resembles a body form on the Fourth-dimension is only a memory pattern.

Following the release from the etheric form, most Egos find the heaven they sought on Earth in the Astral level of the Fourth-dimension.

Depending on the earthly concept of heaven, the departed Egos are readily given the heavenly experience promised, which they live in their memory patterns. Often these Egos believe that they are still following the same life they experienced in their body on the Earth. They fulfil their desires and in their memory enjoy reunion with their deceased love ones.

On the Fourth-dimension there is no reality, because the body forms are created in their memory. Eventually the memories fade away and the Ego goes into eternal sleep, much the same as we do in the Earth-body at night. Only this time the Ego awakens in a small baby body once more on the Third-dimension.

If you want to experience a consciousness beyond the Astral Fourth-dimension following the death of your body, you need to actively open your consciousness to the Light while in your Earth-body.

Everyone has the potential to experience multi levels of consciousness, and we all do unconsciously. However, we are the Light that will produce the consciousness needed to become aware of the multi levels of consciousness in Light.

The only way you can experience the multi-levels of Light consciousness on this dimension is to have an Ego that can contain, and give out, the fullness of the Light that flows through it.

When your Ego denies the flow of Light in preference to the Illusion and all the Illusion offers, your consciousness will never lay claim to being a multi-level being of Light consciousness. This denial prevents Light manifesting in your Ego and your body.

If only one feeling or behaviour blocks the free flow of Light through your Ego, that alone will prevent your expansion of consciousness in Light.

A prophet from India is proclaimed a God on Earth. Many flock to worship and learn. His teachings are based on magic and illusion, but he weaves from his magic great wealth, and his disciples are the ones who are out of pocket and spirituality.

Prophets like these are not what you seek, for you have already trodden the path of illusion. Inwardly you know where the true prophet is. The true prophet asks nothing from any disciples, but give all without any demands.

You need no prophet, for all you need is to turn your gaze away from outward desires and expectations, and focus on the Light within you, which is awaiting your discovery.

In the World of Illusion you are encouraged to see life as something that exists outside your body. Everything, you are told, has an outward expression, and what you feel and fear has no value in the external. Why do only a few individuals attain success in the Illusion, and why do you feel success should also be your right?

You are taught to express your life externally in the world; otherwise you will end up a failure and a nobody.

Everyone attempts to copy others and their success, but not their failures. It begins with the type of schoolteachers whose only criteria for success was passing the exams that allow them to teach others book-knowledge.

The understanding that teachers like this have of Life is no more than they learned on the playground some years earlier, and their understanding of life is moulded by the concepts of those who taught them at school and university.

From such an immature foundation how can we expect the children to develop a positive and successful start in life, based on a narrow and indoctrinated view?

We live in a world filled with individuals ready to accept anything they are told by any authority. The majority of people are swayed by falsities issued as propaganda by governments that know they have brainwashed their citizens to believe everything they are told.

The Illusion exists outside your consciousness. You have been taught to place emphasis on everything in the outside world. Your success, happiness, wealth and love can only be found there. You are told to emulate others who are rich and successful, for by following their methods you too will be successful like them.

You do not question this advice, for you see others who are successful in the world, who make lots of money, and you ask, "Why not me?"

You steal their concept by setting up a similar structure with your own product, and expect to achieve the same success. You tap the same market and usually attract the rejects from the ones you copied. After a few years you still have the same customers you started with, and no one really knows about your products, or cares.

The imitator never achieves the success of the original. Many people do not have the inner resources to create their success, so they look outwardly and attempt to copy something which they assume will be successful for them.

Copying does not work; for there is no map or plan that works for success, for goals built on the concepts of others never come into fruition. Daily focusing on building success step by step ends up nowhere. Many individuals then settle for second best. "Well, I tried," they state. "However, I am satisfied, for at least I'm not broke".

The same applies with spiritual enlightenment. You are given plans, procedures, meditations, mantras, and other methods to give you spiritual freedom. As with the other success tools, it all involves outward focus, and as with the material efforts, the goal is never attained. There is a common denominator here, one that reveals the falsity of the illusory system you live with.

There is a way whereby you can have anything that you truly desire. Even become a millionaire. If that is what you want.

However, everything has its price, and the desire for money has a price. Everything you need to achieve on this Dimension can only be achieved by looking inwardly. The Illusion requires you to compare everything externally. However, you can only be successful by creating your desires and needs internally, and that is your originality.

You do not compete internally. Here you seek to see the success of your life without competition. If there is a need for you to be rich, and that is an internal desire free from what you want externally, then it will come about. However, you alone will bear the responsibility for what you do with that wealth. Obviously, once you attain a desire for wealth you will be drawn into the Astral cycle of making more.

The importance of this message is to encourage you to look internally for your expression of Light. You do not have to be someone important, or an authority, to be successful, as there is no competition in self success.

You will never attain anything of value in life by watching others. Look inwardly and see the motives behind your desires. You will always be successful once you create those conditions within your Light that are fulfilling for the Earth.

Everything exists in your consciousness and not in the external world. You constantly move Light and energy through your body, experiencing the results of your efforts. Is your life everything you expect it to be?

If not. Why? What is wrong with it?

You are to blame for the way you feel and behave, no one else. By changing your desires, feelings, and behaviour, you will be successful. It sounds simple, and it is. Just try it.

When you see the value of your inspiration, and work for that fulfilment, everything follows. You are given the rewards, whether it is money or the love of another. Just follow your inner desire, and if it gives value to others, that is your true success.

THE TRANSMISSIONS AND LIGHT.

The Transmissions, “Enter the Vortex as One Light” have everything you need to successfully and peacefully move through your life experience. At the end of the day there is nothing on this Dimension more important than giving Light and Love to the Earth, as well as everything that is imbued with the Earth’s consciousness, including your body.

Recently I received a letter which posed two questions.

1. “What was written in the footnote for Chapter 2 of the book One Light, will this still occur now that the Earth has moved into the Fourth-dimensional consciousness?”
2. “Why have the Galactic Lords together with Zadore not intervened earlier in this time loop or previous loops to stop the Astrals in their plans?”

“Thank you for bringing the Transmissions forward. As one in Light.” A.P.

What was written in the Footnote does apply.

However, after the Earth’s ascension there will be no physical movement by anyone into another dimension. The moment has not been fulfilled, for we are still moving through the end of time.

Once the Light of the Earth repels the Astrals, they will move deeper into density. In other words, the Astrals will no longer be able to exist on the lower level of the Fourth-dimension. Virtually they will be clothed in the density of the upper Third-dimension, and their power will be limited to the use of etheric energies alone.

The Egos that have not turned to the Light before the end of the Time Loop will remain in Illusion. However it will be a changed Illusion, not offering the power they once enjoyed.

Being locked into the energies of the Third-dimension, the Astrals have no shield to hide behind. They will be as visible as those who remain in Illusion after the end of the Time Loop.

Egos who remain in the Illusion will eventually reject the Astral's efforts for control and free themselves from the Astral bondage. In further Life-experiences they will move back to the Light and consciousness they share with the Earth.

Relative to the second question, we have been told that the Astral Illusion was forced on the consciousness of the Earth's Egos thousands of years ago.

Through selfishness and self-centeredness, the Astral Lords were repelled from the original source of the creative Light. Their expulsion was an automatic response to their darkness, and was removed as far from the intensity of Light as possible.

The Astrals created their own prison on the lower level of the Fourth-dimension, and their power was limited, and their only projection into the Third-dimension is through the radiation belts surrounding the Earth.

The Astral Illusion and the time loop were created to shield Light from the Earth and the Egos attached to the Earth-bodies.

For a while this shielding of the Light from the Earth was successful. However, following successive Time Loops, the Earth progressively increased its Light, not only from Egos who were not fully committed to the Illusion, but from the Sun and the other Stars in the Universe.

To the human consciousness, 100,000 years is seen as a long period of existence. To the Earth's consciousness, this is like a week in the life of a human being. The Astral Illusion limits human consciousness to the extent of what each Time Loop suggests.

When the Light of the Earth reached the intensity of change, the Vortex of Light and Healing opened to the Earth and its Egos' consciousness. For, the moment is at hand.

By following the sequence of the Thread of Infinity you will understand the development of the Light in this Time Loop and the importance of this Moment now.

The message flowing through the pages of the Thread of Infinity, is real and pertinent to the events leading to the end of the Time Loop, and the Ascension of the Earth into the Light consciousness of the Fourth-dimension.

Some 2000 years previously, Ma Kwa Jesu–Jesus instigated the initial changes to lessen the power of the Astral Lords. The Thread of Infinity is the pooled experiences of Kao Wa Mai and Sizzond, stemming from the meeting with Zadore as written in the Great Prophecy.

Those readers who passed over the book “The Golden Shore” as a rewrite on the Gospels, have missed the essential steps leading to this moment and the end of time. Because of this they are unable to link to the Vortex of Light and Healing and the Earth’s ascension.

The Golden Shore eliminates all the Astral content written in the Gospels over the last 2000 odd years, and the true meaning of the events occurring now are visible for those seeking the truth about the Light and the end of time.

Ma Kwa Jesu–Jesus’ mission was threefold. First, to bring into the World the frequency of unconditional love that was not present in human consciousness before then. Second, to bond and bind to him all those disciples who have now returned at this Moment to end the Astral control over the Earth and its Egos. Third, to remove some of the Powers of the Astral Lords forever. All this he did.

All the disciples chose to follow Ma Kwa Jesu, and not the other way as has been intimated in church writings. These disciples numbered more than one thousand, and Ma Kwa Jesu taught them at length until his teachings were burned into their consciousness forever.

Ma Kwa Jesu left them for a period where his Light moved through the Astral Level, and he removed a third of Astral power over the Egos and the Earth. The final removal of their remaining powers will be completed at the end of time.

Later in the Transmission I will reveal how Ma Kwa Jesu reduced the Power of the Astral Lords, and explain what powers remained, and how the remaining powers will be ineffectual after the end of time.

Now Zadore will open our consciousness to the purpose of the Vortex of Light and Healing.

Zadore Speaks:

“As the moment opened in consciousness, I gave the Transmissions to the Earth and its Egos, and you now approach the end of the Time Loop as well the Earth’s ascension into the Light and Consciousness of the Fourth-dimension.

“Following the publication of One Light, many of you eagerly awaited the Transmissions of the Vortex and the Oracle to Freedom.

“For you, the Transmissions are the food of Light expressed in words. These Transmissions awakened in your consciousness the teachings you received from Ma Kwa Jesu some 2000 years earlier, and these earlier teachings have precipitated the movement of your consciousness into the Vortex of Light and Healing.

“In this present Life-experience, the Egos who were the disciples of Ma Kwa Jesu are drawn together into the Vortex of Light and Healing, intensifying their Light and consciousness.

“The intensification of Light and Love emanating from the Vortex of Light and Healing will draw more and more seekers into the energies of the Vortex.

“This combined Light will merge with the great Light of Ma Kwa Jesu, and the total Light will be given to the Earth for its complete ascension. The Astrals will be unable to maintain their existence in the presence of such Light, and once more will move into greater density and darkness.

“As the Astral Lords experience the intensity of greater density and darkness, they will attempt to return to Light. However, they can only return to the Light when they surrender their desires for greatness and control, and replace that with unconditional Love for all beings. For everything is Light, and everything returns to its source.

“Even though your consciousness is moving deeper into the Vortex of Light and Healing, you still have much work to do. You still need to move your consciousness away from all Illusion.

Daily your consciousness is assaulted by the frantic attempts of the Astral entities to create fear and confusion, as they move Nation against Nation in their futile effort to disrupt the minds and emotions of human consciousness.

“Recognize what is occurring, but do not support it in your consciousness. Recognize the events but do not become involved in any way.

“Exhibit no emotion about the wrongness and horror they create, for that will rob you of your Light.

“The Astrals feed on human emotion that blocks the flow of Light through your Ego. Cease feeling one way or another about their actions and this will reduce their power over you.

“The Earth is more powerful than the Astral Lords, and with your combined Light in the Vortex of Light and Healing, the Earth will move beyond all astrality.

“Move your consciousness toward Me, and My Light will harmonize yours”

End of Transmission.

TRANSMISSION

Kao Wa Mai Speaks:

On JESUS' PARABLE OF THE SOWER:

In a story of a man setting out to sow seed in a field, Jesus (Ma Kwa Jesu) spoke of the various ways in which people understood or failed to understand his words of Light and Truth. In the same ways they still understand or fail to understand them now, for Time means nothing – two thousand years are nothing – and in the Illusion nothing changes.

Today, the Transmissions of Zadore will be understood, misunderstood and not understood in the identical manner to Jesus' words.

As did Jesus, the Transmissions of Zadore have a simple but stunning purpose. They seek to teach us about the Illusion – what It is, in the world and in ourselves. They seek to draw us individually out of that Illusion, once and for all.

However, this fact may not be clear to some of us. We may get carried away with more exotic fancies. We may get sidetracked by things we have read elsewhere and try unconsciously to insert these notions into our perception of the Transmissions. It is easy to read into another's words the things we want to hear. It is easy to paint another's picture with the images that reflect our favourite beliefs, or the things of the Illusion that are still comfortable and precious to us – that we still hold dear.

Then, some of us may see the Transmissions as a way of solving all our personal problems, in the way that we would like Zadore, or Sizzond, or Jon Whistler to do our thinking for us. It is true, though, that if we take into our hearts and understanding what the Transmissions seek to tell us, our problems will solve themselves, by the very fact that we have learned what the Illusion is and how we behave because of it.

We are all together in this search for Truth and Freedom. But we are not all identical. We are learning from our current life-experience. We have learned from the life-experiences of many lives in Illusion. Where we are in our understanding is a matter that only we personally know. How much we understand of the Transmissions depends not only upon where we are in consciousness but how willing we are to let go of the habitual and the comfortable. Whether we are able to put our pet notions aside and see the world for what it is, not what we want it to be. Whether we want OUT of the Illusion hard enough, to make a real effort.

Jesus asked this of those who followed him. He said, "I would have you WORK". He wasn't offering them a Sunday picnic or the fantasy of being HIS disciple. And he didn't intend to do their thinking for them either, providing answers to questions where it was the individual's responsibility to seek his or her own. He understood how difficult it would be for these followers – impossible for some – to comprehend what this "WORK" truly meant. So many were enthused by the notion of being part of a select group, clustered around their "great master", in community, that they failed to see that the "work" was entirely and solely a personal thing, because it required that the individual come to grips with the frailties of his or her Ego.

Jesus advised his friends and followers to, "Pray in secret." In other words, the Ego could only truthfully divest itself of its vanities in private. The opening to Light could not come in any other way; only the private, inner confrontation was able to change the individual from within. Everything else – discussion, breast-beating, public agonising, the giving of opinions and the attempt to sway others – was display. Of course, the followers found this "solitude" to be problematic. They could not do as their master did and truly seek the "Silence". How many times did Jesus chide the disciples for their competitive attitudes and behaviour to one another, as they fell into argument and boasting? The followers who found his exhortation to "Pray in secret" to be ungratifying to their Egos soon drifted away from him.

It is the same today. If we feel we have personally understood the Transmissions of Zadore, and yet we do not feel that this is enough, what then does this say about our understanding? We see ourselves as being lone strugglers in a world that does not care. We have tried to talk to people about the Transmissions, but they have not shown a willingness to share our beliefs. It is fair enough to introduce the Transmissions to another person. Indeed, they should be offered to all. However, we all know the old saying: "You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make it drink." Feeling that you NEED to be linked to others of like mind only shows the insecurity of your understanding. You want to discuss the Transmissions with others. Why? Remember, the Transmissions have been written for YOUR opening to Light. In discussions with others we give and receive many fatuous opinions. Confusion then results, as the Ego relishes the intellectual game, and we are led back into the darkness of our own and other people's illusions. Also, the temptation is to put our knowledge on display, which is something the Ego loves to do, because this makes it feel great and important.

You will not understand what the Transmissions are telling you until re-read them many times and give yourself to the Light they bring. Jesus said to his closest followers – the ones he explained things to in detail, (as the Transmissions of Zadore do now for all) – that in giving their minds to the words of Light, they would receive much more than they gave. Because, once you have truly opened yourself to the Light, its truth will flow through you. If you are in any doubt about this, especially read Transmission Twenty – Of The Moment – in “Enter The Vortex ...”

THE SOWER:

Ma Kwa Jesu – Jesus was perfectly aware of the “deafness” and “blindness” of people existing within the Illusion. He spoke of them as the people who stood by the path where some of the Sower’s seed fell. They heard the words of Truth and Light. Nowadays they may read them, too. But the words didn’t and don’t mean anything. People may be so locked into the Illusion that It is everything to them. They can see no other reality. For them, It is all there is.

Then, said Jesus, the Sower’s seed fell on a rocky patch of ground where the topsoil was only thin over stones. Any gardener knows how soil like this works. With a bit of rain the seeds germinate quickly and you get a good show. The grass, or whatever, springs up readily – it looks that wonderful verdant, youthful green. But it has hardly any roots, and as soon as there is a scorcher of a day, the stones heat up and the grass burns in the sun. Then it shrivels up and dies.

How many people are like this? They hear a truth. They read a Transmission. “Gosh,” they say, “this is wonderful. This is really cool.” Their hearts are uplifted; they are enthused. They appear to be totally caught-up. But, really, their understanding has little substance. It is as thin as the topsoil of Jesus’ story. At the first sign of outside criticism, they recant out of fear or embarrassment, and then they move on to something else. Which is a pity, for the joy their hearts felt when being touched by the words of Light is the key to their salvation. But they know it not.

For many, the cares of this world are great. Personally they may feel overburdened with troubles: with difficult and bad relationships, with money or health problems. On a wider scale they see the misery of environmental degradation, wars, poverty, famine, universal disease and the greed and corruption and callousness of governments and moneymaking corporations. Plainly, the world is a mess, and it is heart-breaking to observe. And, uncomfortably, their own world is less than ideal. They feel they are suffering, as so many others are suffering.

For these people, though their hearts are longing for Truth and Light, the cares of the world are overpowering. When they hear or read the words of Light, a light does come into their hearts and minds. They know there is a door to freedom there, waiting to be opened, but they can’t open it. There are too many troubles in the way; they must focus on the troubles, because these things seem so important. What their Egos seem to be suffering, is more important than anything else.

Jesus described these people as receiving the Sower’s seeds of Light amongst the thistles. The thistles grow tall and choke the seedlings of Light, so that they never get to grow. What the people like this don’t understand is that the troubles are of the Illusion. Focusing on them will never solve or change them. It will only draw one deeper into the negativity of the Illusion. Jesus spoke of the young man who wished to “follow” the Light; however the following had to wait until he’d “buried his parents”. People like this young man will say to you – “I’ll be able to concentrate better on the Transmissions once I get this ... or that ... problem out of the way”. Or – “It will all come right for me once I find the right relationship, once I feel happy and complete.” Or – “Yes, the Transmissions excite me. But, unless I can sort myself out ...”

Likewise amongst the thistles are those who still chase after the “good” things of the world: the money, the power, the success, the notoriety or fame, the luxuries and the “good life”. Possibly they may already have all or some of these, and that in itself becomes a trap. Because the lure then is to have more of the same, to continue to enjoy. Inwardly, though, they know these things mean nothing, but they still want them. What they have to do to get and keep these worldly “blessings” then becomes their compromise with life. They would be free Light-beings, but ... well ... it’s hard to give away desires ...

Finally, said Jesus, the Sower’s seed makes it to the good rich soil. Fertile ground with plenty of deep rich humus and lots of lovely nutrients. The ground is well prepared. It has been dug through many life-experiences until the people who stand upon it have learned enough to want themselves out of the Illusion. The soil is so deep that the stones are way below, and they have pulled out the thistles, one by one.

So, wanting freedom more than anything, they are prepared to take the words of Light into their hearts and be ready to make the next step. As soon as they hear or read them, they “know”. Their hearts tell them the truth, as, inwardly, they feel the immediate response. Because the words of Light come from their own Light speaking to them.

Most of us aren’t fully on this rich soil yet. We’ve got one foot on it and we’re still whipping out a few thistles here and there. But the more we whip out, the less there are, and the closer we come to planting both feet permanently in the good earth. The Transmissions of Zadore are designed to lead us to that good earth.

Our life-experiences are multifarious. They are a catalogue of the Ego’s mistakes in Illusion and of beautiful and uplifting moments of feeling and revelation. Through the processes of many lives we have been and expressed each of Jesus’ apt analogies: the empty path, the rocky ground, the weed-infested soil. Time, isn’t it, that we put aside our focus on our Egos, and become the good earth?

It is time, because our sole purpose here is, and always has been, to give One Light to the Earth. All our Ego-concerns are really nothing. Ma Kwa Jesu and the Transmissions will tell us that. Read the Transmissions. Give your minds to the words of Light. You can be pure little plants growing in the pure, good soil, being the pure Light – the One Light – and giving that Light to the Earth.

This Earth Light Transmission will be continued.

A postscript from Jon Whistler.

“After reading Zadore’s Transmissions it is obvious that he stated there would be no groups, sanctuaries or organizations operating under the name of One Light or any other names, such as Adasha, revealed by his Transmissions.

“We have no control over the actions of others, and should they pursue such actions that is their option. However, I want to clearly state that any organization or group that claim to represent the Transmissions, One Light, Zadore or Adasha have no connection or affiliation with the One Light Transmissions.
